

Jazzmine Magloire is a Certified Professional Personal Development Coach and Inspirational Speaker. She is an energetic, warm, and transparent presenter on a mission to help women reach their full potential professionally and personally with clarity, focus, and most importantly peace.

Jazzmine has been helping both teens and adults overcome inner obstacles and discover their worth for 12 years. Each client not only learns something new about themselves, but comes to a new understanding of God simultaneously! For that she feels there is a grace on her to help draw people to the heart of God where the depth of development takes place. When she is not coaching, she is spending time with her husband and three children, writing, reading, or teaching.
